FERC DOCKET EL-0095 (REFUNDS)

This FERC proceeding, initially commenced by San Diego Gas & Electric, sought FERC intervention into California's troubled electricity market. Numerous parties intervened, including PG&E. The parties sought (1) market relief & reform and (2) refunds from electricity sellers for alleged overcharging during the power crisis. During the summer of 2001, a FERC judge presided over settlement negotiations with respect to the refund issue between power sellers, the state, and the utilities - to no avail. The "refund trial" proceeded and took place in phases with Phase 1 in 3/02 and Phase 2 in 8 & 9/02. The State of California sought approximately $9 billion in refunds on behalf of the utilities and other California buyers. In 12/02, the FERC trial judge preliminarily found that refunds of only $1.8 billion were due.

In 8/02, the US Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit issued an order remanding issues related to the refund trial to the FERC. Specifically, the FERC would need to allow additional evidence related to potential market manipulation by sellers. On 11/20/02, the FERC initiated a 100-day period of discovery regarding market manipulation.

Discovery concluded on 2/28/03. The Heller firm filed a report with the FERC, as did other parties, setting forth the results of discovery.

On 3/26/03, the FERC staff released its own report indicating it had found evidence of market manipulation and recommended further proceedings.
